Janet Scott

An opportunity to hear Janet Scott talk about a topic that has been around in Quakers for some time, and aroused considerable debate. Is it just a question of semantics? Whatever your views, it will be an interesting morning. Do come and share your thoughts, and hear others.

Janet Scott of Jesus Lane Meeting has, over a long career, been involved in religious education and teaching. She was head of Religious Studies at Homerton College in Cambridge, and represents Quakers on the World Council of Churches central committee, and as a Trustee of Churches Together in Britain. She has been Clerk of Meeting for Sufferings and given the Swarthmore lecture at BYM on 'Towards a Quaker Theology', as well as being involved in revising Quaker Faith & Practice. An inspiring speaker, not to be missed.
